Generation Next

Generation Next is a college readiness, access, and completion program created to correct disparities in education. It ensures that students of color, future first-generation college students, and/or low-income students have increased access to opportunities that will further their education. The program works with students to achieve college admission, integrate into college life, and complete a post-secondary program.

Currently, it serves high school students in the Allentown Area School District, Bethlehem Area School District, and Easton Area School District.
